FACTS

Mounia de Casablanca

Casablanca, shopping, family relationships, friendship, traditional culture, hammam, politics and feminism.

“I’m a positive, creative girl and enjoy my life. I know how to find happiness”

In this program you get to know Mounia, a positive high school student in Casablanca.

Visit Mounia’s home in a typical building in Casablanca and meet her friends while shopping in central Casablanca. Mounia is fighting for women’s rights. What is the natural beauty secret of Moroccan girls and what about the tradition of Hammam?

In ten years time she wants to work as a fashion designer and with women’s rights.

Alexandre du Québec

Outdoor sports, nature and piano-playing. Friendship and family, meet three generations. Figure skating at high competition level.

“There is maybe more courage than talent in a success”

Meet the sporty young man Alexandre and his family. We visit both his weekend house in the countryside, Lac Simon, and the family home in Montreal, Québec. Nature, sports and fresh air activities are the key words for Alexandre.

He is doing figure skating at a high competition level and in fact he recently won the Canadian championship, for skating couples up to 18 years. He also loves music and is a really good piano player. Listen to his interpretation of Debussy’s Claire du lune!

What’s the way to success? Alexandre thinks it’s hard work and courage – and of course a bit extraordinary talent as well.

Shalane de Martinique

Summer job in her father's creole restaurant, friends and family, tour of the Yoles, environmental aspects and climate changes, studying in France for a year.

“What doesn't kill you makes you stronger.”

Shalane lives in Saint-Pierre on the beautiful island Martinique. After a year in France she is back home and works in her father's typical restaurant at the beach. She has a twin brother and we also meet her parents and grandmother, who talks creole and has indian roots.

Shalane tells us what happened when the island was hit by the tropical storm Lenny. We also get to know what «Tour de Yoles» is and get a glimpse of traditional dance. The church is important in her life and she tells us why.

Morgan de Antibes, Côtes d'Azur

Francophonie

Sports at a high level, trampoline, Pole France and free running, health and nutrition, typical Mediterranean food, apprenticeship, horology.

"The trampoline, to not have the feet on the ground, is a sensation of freedom. I love flying."

Morgan is a young man living in the beautiful town Antibes in south France. His passion in life is trampoline training and free running. If he passes the tests he will represent France in the Olympic games 2016.

We visit a local market and follow him preparing the typical Salade Nicoise. A healthy lifestyle is important to Morgan and his family.

Morgan attends a vocational school to become watchmaker. Are there any similarities between his work with watches and his interest in trampoline and sport? After viewing Morgan's program you will know!

Fanny de Bretagne

Friendship, journalism, environment, surfing, traditional market.

“Vis tes rêves mais ne rêve pas ta vie“ (Live your dreams but do not dream your life)

Meet Fanny, a committed girl who plans to become a journalist.

She is involved in environmental protection and a member of “Parlement Européen des jeunes”, the European Youth Parliament.

She loves to discover new things and shows us different parts of the beautiful Bretagne. We also visit a local market and Fanny introduces us to local handcraft and culture.

Marvin de Paris

Young Paris, sustainable transports, martial art, high level of Vovinam, stunt and best friend Yassine

“Go beyond your limits and believe in your dreams!”

Marvin lives in the Paris suburb Fontenay-sous-Bois. He shows us around the young Paris ; by foot, RER, métro, boat and bicycle. We visit for example Marches du Sacré-Cœur, Parc de la Villette, Fontenay-sous-Bois, Place de la Bastille and Forum des Halles.

Marvin is very sporty and from a young age, he has a passion for martial arts.

He introduces us to Vovinam, the philosophy, and his interest in martial arts. We see him practice together with his best friend Yassine.

In the future, he would like to become a professional actor or stuntman and stunt director.
